“ There are so many things i wish i could talk to you about. I miss you so much ive known you all my life but those years i lived with yall i learned so much.i learned how a man is truly supposed to treat a woman.you taught me so much its hard to put in words everything.you were my buddy even though the thrift store vacuum thing was funny id do anything to see you bring one home.we would roll our eyes at the site of those things but it was your thing so we rode that ride.i am having a hard time in life and i remember you used to always tell me its going to be ok blue things are not always going to be like this.this man and my little lady my 2 cuzzints developed a bond that will never be broken and i feel lucky to be a part of that.you truly are a twinkle in the sky and i have fount the star that i believe is you i pray with you every night.i sit and look into the sky and my mind becomes peaceful and my body is relieved of the numbness i feel being without you that twinkle is you.i love you morris sargent may you rest in peace my buddy

“ I think Morris's dad's birthday was September 14th. If so, what an awesome surprise for LD to see his son walk through heaven's gate just in time to celebrate with him! Cathy, I know you're devastated to lose the love of your life and you're in my prayers. I've heard that Morris has been ill for quite some time, and that just breaks my heart him, for all of you. Rest In Peace, you sweet man!
