“ I am so sorry for our loss. I say our loss because Mrs. Thompson was one of the best educators that Gwinnett ever employed. I give her all the credit for my Childrens education at Lilburn, Elem. God bless the family. We will miss Ann

“ Mrs. Thompson was my 3rd grade teacher at Lilburn Elementary school in, I believe, 1993. At first, I was scared of her because she was strict; she didn't put up with nonsense. However, I quickly learned that she also made school fun. Some of my most memorable times from elementary school were in her class. She made learning fascinating, everything from making erupting volcanoes to role playing the patricians and plebeians of ancient Roman society. I thank God for teachers like Mrs. Thompson who provided a nurturing structure and infused me with curiosity about the world. I am about to complete my Masters program at The University of Georgia, and I know that without the teachers I had, especially Mrs. Thompson, I would not be where I am today. I thank God for her life, and I am blessed to know she was a fellow sister in the Lord, that one day we will meet again. We do not grieve as those who have no hope. 1 Thess 4: 13-18

“ I enjoyed getting to know Ann when we were cul-de-sac neighbors in Duluth. We attended several luncheons together but I especially remember the fine luncheon her daughter gave her when they moved into their home in Auburn. I shared Ann's pride in her lovely granddaughter, Allie, who had grown into such a lovely young girl and assisted with hostessing the luncheon. I am glad Ann is no longer in pain and that her suffering is over. What a grand reunion she must be having with Joe and others who have passed before her! Prayers go out to her family who are mourning their loss.
