However, her most heartfelt role was serving the students in the cafeteria at Sugar Hill Elementary School, where she touched many lives with her kindness and warm smile.

Annelle is survived by her brother Fred Fowler, and her nieces Susan Whitt (and husband Rusty Whitt), Sandy Hurt, and Vickie Cooper (and husband Rodney Cooper). She is also remembered with love by nieces, nephews and cousins on Johnny's side of the family, her great-nieces and nephews and many other dear friends and family members.

Annelle had a passion for quilting, gardening, and camping. Her generosity,

“ I have many memories of Annelle and Johnny. When we all had a cabin in Paradise Valley they were across the street from us. Those were happy days. She will be missed. She often talked about her church and her family.
