“ 3 years later, I can't believe it's taken me this long to find out. I feel like I'm the only one left. First Brad, then Greg, now Ben. God, I wish I would have known. Who would have thought I would Google your name and this is what the search would show. We obviously had lost touch in the years since we were all friends and man, there were some ups and downs during those times. But who would have thought that 3 of the people I considered best friends would be dead at such an age. Carolyn and Josh, I am truly sorry I missed the last years of George's and Ben's lives. If you ever need to talk, I am just a message away. We lost our daughter (my stepdaughter) in March of this year so I can somewhat sympathize. I miss y'all.

“ It's still hard to grasp you're gone. I will miss you dearly. You have been a great friend, more like a brother. It was wonderful to see you transition from Ben to a loving father. Through all of us who knew and loved you, will forever tell your bots are wonderful you were and how you loved them. Sam, you and those boys were heaven on earth for him, he maybe gone in the flesh, but his love lives on in his boys. RIP Ben, you will be greatly missed.

“ With deepest sympathy on the death of Mr. Page. As you cherish fond memories of Ben, please find comfort in the Bible based hope of a resurrection to everlasting life as stated at Acts 24:15. One day soon, our enemy death will be eliminated. For this reason Revelation 21:4, 5 states that there will be a time when all sickness, death, pain and sorrow will be a thing of the past. May this promise comfort your grieving hearts.

“ My sister, Holly Redd, has been good friends with Ben for many years. I've watched him grow into a man, meet sweet Sam, and bring two precious babies into this world. My heart goes out to his family, Sam, and all who loved him. I pray for his loved ones... for peace and the strength to heal during this time. I know his daddy was there to welcome him Home with open open arms.
