“ My brother, Lewis, “Wormie” will be missed so much. It’s hard to look at the end of life of anyone we love so very much, however we all have to face it sooner or later. Lewis was my phone a friend since we lived so far apart. I always enjoyed talking to him. He was absolutely the funniest person, He never failed to put a smile on my face or just make me laugh out loud. I think he missed his calling in life, because he could have no doubt been the best stand up comedian ever. That’s the way I will remember him. The Lord does not judge, he simply opens his loving arms to all his children here on earth and forgives all. Near the end of his life he told me he wish he had listened to Mom. He was very regretful of not being a better person and a better father. I’m so thankful he had a friend like his buddy Jarrett who helped him so much during his final years. He was extremely appreciative of him. He loved his children with all his heart. His granddaughters were his light in life for many years. Peace be with you my little brother. Give Mom and Kermit a hug for me. Big Sis Debbie.

“ My dad and I have definitely had our ups and downs through the years, unfortunately it was more downs than ups, but he was my dad and I have always loved him and always will. I always think back of being a child and I thought he was the coolest person ever and I wanted to be just like him. I was a little mini Lewis, I wanted to go wherever he went and do whatever he did. We would spend our time watching Saturday morning cartoons and I remember him watching football and he would always scream dog pile and tackle me. There are so many good memories. I wish we would have gotten more time to spend with each other and I wish we would have had a chance to understand one another better. But unfortunately that was not in our cards this time around. Maybe next life we will be able to have a better relationship. Love you always, your daughter Brandy.
