Mrs. Darracott is survived by her husband of 73 years, Noah Darracott of Buford, GA; daughter, Sharon (Jimmy) Hill of Buford, GA; sons, Ronnie (Sheila) Darracott of Buford, GA, and Danny (Jan) Darracott of Buford, GA,; grandchildren, Melissa (David) Bowen, Chris (Jill) Hill, Brian (Amy) Darracott, Lindsay (Dave) Bendetti, Jake (Tiffany) Darracott, Jenna Darracott; 15 greatgrandchildren; 5 great-great-grandchildren; brothers, Ray (Jenie) Anderson of Decatur, GA, Jack Anderson of Hayesville, NC; numerous nieces, nephews, and cousins.

Mrs. Darracott, affectionately known as “Teak” by her family and friends, was born January 25, 1932 in Hayesville, North Carolina. She attended Hayesville High School. As a young woman, she left her beloved hometown of Shooting Creek and moved to Atlanta, Georgia, where she met the love of her life at the corner drug store. They later settled in Buford, Georgia where they raised their three children. Mrs. Darracott was a devoted homemaker and the heart of her home. While her husband, Noah, built Custom Cabinets in their backyard workshop, she lovingly prepared meals each day from home grown vegetables. Family and friends especially enjoyed her tea cakes, leather britches and fried okra. She also worked at Fawn Togs in Braselton, Ga and Lovable in Buford, Georgia where she met many dear friends. She enjoyed spending time with loved ones at the camp ground, tending her flowers, and listening to gospel bluegrass music. She often sang Keep on the Sunny Side which echoed her contagious laughter and warm hospitality. But above all, she was known for her unwavering faith and deep love for her Lord. She was a longtime member of Harmony Baptist Church in Buford. Her grandchildren knew her as “Granny Goose” and she treasured every moment spent with them. They say you never leave Granny’s house hungry, without a sweet treat, and a big hug to send you on your way.
