“ A multitude of wonderful childhood memories flood past, as I attempt to piece words together that would describe, even to a stranger, my "Granddaddy Fred".
My very best attempt would be to describe a boy with a rifle and fishing pole, spending his youthful years outdoors, with his Grandpa.
Those weekends spent roaming the woods and streams molded me into who I am.
I have passed on to my sons, and will continue to pass on to others, those words of great meaning that Granddaddy Fred often spoke to me so sternly. "Boy, there ain't nothin good that could come of that!"

Rest easy Granddaddy,
Keith.
