“ I have known Gerri for many years, and recently I was fortunate to spend time living with her to offer companionship. I enjoyed those times when we sat and talked about life, love and anything else that came to mind. I will always remember the smile on her face when I would go in to check on her and Sugar (her dog) would get between us b/c he was protecting his Moma. Although her health was failing, she gave me advice when needed, we shared laughs and more than a few cheeseburgers. She spoke often of her family and her life with Carol, and those are times that I truly enjoyed. She will be missed, but I know that she is in a better place now. My thoughts and prayers are with the family. Lynn
