“ It was a shock when I heard the sad news of Kenny's passing. We were cousins and I visited his home often because we played Little League baseball together. We were not only related, but we became good friends. The kindness of Kenny and his family was exceptional and I always felt at home when I visited. We had many conversations about our favorite players and our favorite team, the New York Yankees. Kenny and his dad Jack invited me to take a trip to Kansas City in 1967 to see our favorite Yankees play the KC Athletics. We stayed in the majestic Muehlebach Hotel in downtown Kansas City where the Yankees were staying. I was eleven at the time and Kenny was 10 and we were in awe when we met and secured the autographs of all of the players including our hero, Mickey Mantle. I have always cherished that trip and the kindness of Kenny and his dad. Kenny will be missed, but the memories will remain. Rest in peace my friend.
