“ We will forever remember this strong, bright, and beautiful young man. His kindness was unequalled by his peers and he was always ready to lend a hand. I first met James when he and Brady were barely taller than my dogs. I had fractured my leg bone and Valerie brought them to visit me. Those sweet boys offered to walk my dogs and kept showing up long after I healed.

James spent countless hours with us and the other younguns that migrated toward our house. For well over a decade, he and his friends were allowed to drop by whenever to play on the dock, hang on the porch, watch tv, attend bonfires, get out of the rain, or take a break from the heat or the cold. They eventually were given the responsibility of lighting the fireworks on NYE. Creating cherished memories of long days spent on the lake tubing, boating, swimming, noodling or just hanging out being cool. When we weren't playing they all came to get paid for chores and it was obvious James had the strongest work ethic. We purchased countless cokes and sprites and made endless sandwiches and I enjoyed every minute of it. I don't think any of us knew we were making stories to share later. It is unreal to accept that we will never see him again. The hole in my chest aches like the bloody socket of a missing tooth. We had no fireworks this year but I imagine he lit up the heavens with that infectious smile of his.

“ James was one of the best people I ever met. He was my best friend for the time I knew him. The way we laughed and joked was something I’ll never forget and have always cherished. We went through a lot and he was always there for me, even checked up on me when we weren’t cool. I will forever miss him, you can’t replace that. I will forever remember bringing him back to life on my couch. Just a great guy, happiness radiated off of him, he didn’t care about a hating opinion, he was always himself and he stayed true to his word. James always will have a special place in my heart and brings tears to my eyes to think of him. I miss you James and wish we could have had more time together. Even though it kills me, he always told me he wanted wanted to go out in speed, I always laughed not knowing I’d be burying my friend. Always thought It’d be mine he would go to. I love you brother rest easy I’ll see you again one day and we ‘gon race till the wheels fall off.

“ James was a very special person. He made sure everyone was laughing and was cared of. I’ll never forget just driving around with him laughing and enjoying the night sky. Watching the sunset was something he loved to do, and I’ll see him in every sunset. Rest easy James 🕊️❤️🔥

“ James was a close friend of mine, we did alot of things together. His first tattoo, playing cat n mouse on our way home, suicideboys concert, gave me a beautiful kitten, the list is long. He was a jokester, a teddy bear, a little big brother. Hold onto that fluffy gray cat for me, rest easy James ☐🕊️

“ James was my grounds man on my crew. He always had us laughing. He was a hard worker and was always wanting to learn. He knew I had worked on the pipeline and welded and he always was excited about getting out to go make that big boy money welding. I'll never forget the time he did the one chip challenge at work at 7am... I'm definitely going to miss him. My prayers and thoughts go out to his friends and family. Fly high buddy.
