“ Jean and I didn't become friends until she came to High School because she lived in Sasser and I lived in Dawson. We graduated in 1959. Her main interest in High School was Basketball and Tennis. I got to go with her on the away games our Senior year because Coach let me be the scorekeeper. We had a lot of fun on those bus trips. She was very good at playing basketball and she still played Tennis after she got married. She also went to Atlanta for schooling to become a nurse. After we graduated, I went to Atlanta to go to Business School in June and Jean came later to go to Nursing School...at Emory University. Over the years we have continued to keep in touch. Any time when I would be in Ga I would try to go see her and we did write a lot of letters. Years later after our children had grown up, Bob and Jean came up to visit us and they got to see some of Wisconsin. Jean and I went up to Canada and took the train across the country during the Fall one year. The last visit was earlier this year in Sept she and her daughters, Lynda and Cheryl came up here to celebrate Jean's 81st birthday. It was a special time and we spent the afternoons going down memory lane...she was a special friend and I will miss her.
