“ I am sorry for the loss that the family and friends are feeling now. At the same time, I am so happy that Jimmie continued to make everyone he knew happy and that he was right with God. On the lighter side, I am sure that there are people in Prairie Grove that still think we stole watermelons that we didn't get.

“ Shirley and family,

I have pondered many hours on what I could add here that other people have not already said or knew about Jimmie. Those that were lucky enough to ever meet him, let alone know him, already are aware of the impact he had on people.

I always held him in high regards since we were cousins, but Jim was "family" to everyone he met. There is not enough room on this page, and I do not have the vocabulary to speak of this man's qualities.

We have not only lost family, we lost the proudest man I've known. I know of no other person that was more proud of his wife, kids and grandkids than Jimmie Cook. At times I thought he was going to explode when he was telling his stories about his family and his pride for each and everyone of you. No other individual could tell a story like Jim Cook, his humor and wit was second to no one. Jimmie could make you cry with laughter in about three sentences then get himself tickled and almost be in tears also. I sometimes wondered if I stayed awake at night thinking of ways so Shirley would be the fall guy for all his stories.

Even though Jimmie was a few years older than me, the man always had time for me whether it be fishing or shooting rifles and such. I will leave your family with a real story of whom Jimmie Cook was.

We were walking down mainstreet one afternoon, I was in my early to mid teens, and there was an older gentleman sitting on the bench in front of the I.G.A.

The old man appeared to have the weight of the world on his shoulders, he was whipped. As we passed him, and I'll never forget this, I heard Jimmie speak. I turned around and Jimmie was leaning over the old man, he had one hand on his shoulder the other hand on the man's left knee. Jim spoke two words. You ok? The old man looked up and saw Jimmie's great smile and piercing eyes. The old man stood up straight as a board, clasped Jimmie's hand and said "I'm better now, I think things will be ok. "Thanks for asking".

That was Jimmie Cook.

“ *Dear Shirley, kids & grandkids,
I know that Heaven gained a wonderful Angel the day that Jimmie entered those gates.
I am truly sorry for your loss and the pain that accompanies losing someone that we just love so much. I pray for your strength and peace.
Watch for the signs, he is and always will be with each and everyone of you guys.
All our love,
Cindy & Dave Kirven
P.S. I still got the J.D. that he gave me the last time I seen him :)*

“ Mr. Jimmy Cook not a man anyone is likely to forget, I was about 7 years old the first time I met him and remember it like it was yesterday, the stories he told would keep your attention you didn't want to miss a word. With age came wisdom, I finally figured out he was completely pulling my leg most of the time, maybe all of the time. Shirley I know your heart is so heavy at this time, God will help you get through it, you and your family are in my prayers. I know my Daddy will miss him, he has always thought of him as (Leon the Best Friend I have ever had)

“ Hello

I would like to offer my condolences to the family of Mr. Jimmie L. Cook. I am a local minister and would like to share a scriptural thought with the family. The thought is from John 5:28,29, were Jesus says: "Do not Marvel at this for the hour is coming in which all those in the memorial tombs will hear my voice and come out". Jesus spoke of a time when we will see our love ones again. I have found this scripture to be of comfort to me and hope it provides comfort for you. Again, please accept my condolences.
