“ David and Shawn and Judy’s Mom , who I heard her address as ‘my mom’ for countless years... I knew Judy from my Field Engineering/IBM days on Spring Street in Atlanta as well as in the IBM building on West Peachtree Street. She was able to run the Guided Learning Center without any assistance and make system repairs which was unusual for anyone other than a trained engineer but she took upon herself to learn and maintained 26 systems and hundreds of educational programs allowing the Atlanta Guided Learning Center to rank number one in customer revenue and attendance for two years in a row and when we came in number two it was because we had been dwarfed in size by another national customer center ‘s GLC which had many more attendees and workstations that year but because of Judy’s attitude and attention and love paid to her customers she always ranked highest in customer satisfaction and for that I am not only grateful but remember her many conversations while pouring over an open mainframe while fixing, & talking about getting home to David and her Mom... and the conversations mentioning Shawn (you were so important to her) and how we could laugh about life’s strange paths we had each traveled getting to where we were. IBM asked the best of us and at times could cause what felt to be insurmountable stress now and then for most but I felt Judy had the backing of a family to support which was not always everyone else’s fortune in this life. I am so sorry I didn’t find Judy in time to see her in life but know in my heart she is happy and healthy where she is and wish I could have found her before now. God bless your family and Judy’s memories. Much love to you all.
