“ This is the text from my goodbye tribute with the anniversary and valentine cards:

Goodbye To My Darling June

When I met you in September of 1963, even though I was only 17 years old, I knew instantly you were the ONE. And the last 58 years have proven me correct. It has been a wonderful and fun marriage. We had some tough times starting out, but we got on the home stretch with a flourish. Disappointingly, life sent yet another hurdle your way and this one couldn't be cleared. The thing I have always loved about you was your never give up spirit. You faced your many health challenges with a "What's next?" It has been a great privilege to be your husband for these 58 years. You made living worthwhile no matter what. When we got the bad news on December 29th , we were both devastated. I was determined to make your last days as comfortable as I could.

I remember years ago when I was rattling off on you about something, you said to me, "I love you anyway." I started saying it back to you. All these years later I have really enjoyed adding "I love you more" and "I love you most" and seeing who could have the last say. Honey, I want you to know that I kept "I love you most" up in your ear all the way to end last Friday. On one of our down days of the last thirty, you saw my tears and said, "I'm hurting you." I told you that wasn't possible. Please know that is the truth. I will love and miss you for the rest of my days when we can rejoin our hands. On our anniversary, January 8th, I gave you two cards. I recall I had to read them to you, sobbing with every word. I have included those cards for you here. I got you two Valentine cards, like I always do, two days before the end. You weren't aware but the hospice nurse said you could hear me, so I read them to you as well, again sobbing with every word. They are also included for you.

"A Last I Love You"

I will be listening for your comeback in my dreams.

"I love you anyway"

"I love you more"

"I love you most"

Always and forever,

Bob

“ Mom was a very selfless and loving person. She was often shy and reserved with others outside the family but, she never hesitated to put others before herself. She went without many, many years so that we could have opportunities and things she didn't have. She was meek yet strong when she needed to be. She never stopped inspiring and encouraging us to be the very best. She always believed in each one of us and as a family, and I will always treasure that about the most loving woman I have ever had the blessing to know and call mother. I will always love you and miss you dearly.

“ June and I worked together at Rich's, then later, Macy's at the Mall of Georgia for many years. We shared a love of family. Everyone loved June for her kindness, generosity and thoughtfulness. June was such a humble soul and was always such a pleasure to work with. I don't think I ever heard her complain even once. I am so blessed that the Lord placed her in my path. What a "Lady"!!!

“ June....sweet, kind, loving, giving, gracious.....with some steel strength and tenacity. Opposite sides of the country, but always a part of family even out here in California. In hearts and memories. So quiet and small footprint.....will be so missed.
