“ Hey Kellen. Everyone shared such beautiful, amazing memories of you and truthfully I didn't know if my comment would even matter or if it might be out of place. I didn't get to know you as long as everyone else maybe did but... I did get to know you to have a wonderful, kind, giving (and perhaps most of all, hilarious) personality. I had the pleasure of working with you as a fellow gray shirt at AutoZone. I got to both open and close with you on more than one occasion, and even though I had worked in parts forever I had left for a while to work with Advance and Napa and Car quest. So when I came back the system had changed so much. I was still getting used to everything when you started. As silly as it sounds, I cannot even count the number of times that you felt so bad for me because I was pregnant and I still had to do all manner of heavy lifting (not to mention morning, who am I kidding here? ALL DAY sickness) so often out of kindness you would take over my register so I could go to lunch earlier for a break. You went above and beyond for others, always. I dunno. Just know that you're missed and thought of even by the most unlikely of people.

“ I had the privilege of teaching Garrett for four years in high school orchestra. His intelligence and passion for music made him a strong bassist. His exuberance and positive energy made him a leader in my classroom. His willingness to jump in and help where needed made him my 'right hand'. Garrett is now, and will always be, one of my babies.

“ Garrett was one of my best friends in high school and after. To him and many others I was nicknamed "Asian" but to me, he was my "wa-ling" because of the most obvious reasons. We still greeted each other that way every time we saw each other and laughed every time because he always said it in the most perfect Asian accent. He has impacted my life more times than I could ever thank him. He introduced me to my husband and from there, he started my family that he will always be apart of. My children adored their uncle wa-ling and I can't wait to tell our newest daughter about him. Garrett was loved beyond belief and will forever be in our hearts. My love, thoughts and prayers go out to his family and I know he lives on through all of us.

“ Jodi and Jeannie,
Julie and I are so sad to hear about Kellen. No words can be said of the feelings that we have for this special young man. We watched him grow from a funny little boy that hung out over here with us so many times to a handsome and bright young man that went on and had his own family. Our thoughts and prayers are with you both at this time.
