“ I am an old friend of Ken’s. We lost touch when I moved out of California and today I wanted to reach out and connect with him. I feel so dumbfounded to find out he’s no longer here on the planet with us. At least not in body. He was the sweetest, most gentle soul. he looked out for me like a brother would. I am so sad I never got the chance to tell him how the little things he did for me when we lived in San Diego left a lasting impact on my heart. God bless you Kenny. I am certain you’re smiling in Heaven because you have the r heart of an angel.

“ I played football with Kenny and some time across from him on the D-line he was a great tackle. I also shared a birthdate with him and same year I always remembered that and often have thought about him even though I haven’t seen him since high school. He always made me a better athlete and person when I was around him and always have had that in my heart during my years after high school and am really saddened by hearing this news. I’m very sorry for your loss he made the world a better place thank you for letting me share

“ I’m thankful to have shared so many warm and silly memories with Ken. I will miss him deeply. He always had a smile and a big hug ready for me whenever we would see each other. I’ll miss that most of all. Ken had a positive impact on my life and I’m grateful our paths crossed. If only for a few years. I’m so lucky to have known him. I’m sorry for your loss Loncar family.

“ Kenny and I helped open the restaurant Bare Bones Steakhouse starting in Sept. of 2015 and we became fast friends. Though he was 12 years my junior, we had a lot in common. We both grew up in Southern California and we both love Rock And Roll. We both love history and especially the history of music. He was well educated on a lot of subjects and was able to have a conversation about just about anything. I loved him and will miss him forever. Clay Bailey
