“ It took thirty something years to find you. Why did I only get thirteen years to love you, when a hundred wouldn't have been enough? I miss you so much baby and I hurt everyday. I know you miss me too! I can't wait till the day when I can see you again. Till then, I love you baby!!! More than I could ever make you see.

“ When I heard of your passing... It was very shocking... It hit my heart like I never would have imagined. It released memories of another time... Memories that were almost but will never be forgotten. When someone you love becomes a memory, that memory becomes a treasure. Even though throughout the years we had drifted apart, the pain of losing you made me realize how much u loved you. It is the capacity to feel consuming grief and pain and despair that allows us to embrace love and joy and beauty with all our hearts and souls. You died too young... But some are bound to die young... By dying young you stay young in our memories.. If she burns brightly before she dies, her brightness shines on for eternity.... SHINE ON DEAR SISTER.... Death is not the last sleep but the final awakening! - Tabby

“ Kim and I had over 40 years of memories together. Blazing trails through the neighborhood woods. Sneaking out at night and laying on my driveway, with the Sunday paper as a pillow, looking up at the stars. Sneaking into the drive-in to see the show for free. Taking a last minute trip to Hilton Head for the Fourth of July. Always up for an adventure. So funny and full of life. She loved her family. Spent countless hours caring for her grandmother and grandchildren. Generous to a fault. Loved her home and caring for her yard. Adored her pets. A good person that will be missed by many. I love you Kim! I know she is watching over all of us and I will see her again some day. May God bless you and keep you in his arms.

“ Kim had the ability to make you laugh even on your worst days. I always said if she was a millionaire, she'd give all of the money away and leave nothing for herself. Kim didn't want for much and just loved the simple things in life. Lots of fond memories and crazy adventures will stay in my heart forever. Till I see you again my friend.
