“ To Artie and Family. We just found out about your losing Linda. So sorry we didn't know so we could be with you. You will feel like part of you has gone and that you can't cope with it. But, as time passes for you the hurt will lessen and special thoughts of Linda will fill some of the void for you. She was always such a nice person to be around and I am certain she had a lot of friends. We just get selfish with our loved ones when they leave us we feel like they should have stayed with us longer. I can only say to you that about the best thing to remember is that all of us go through this type of loss and as time passes we can cope with it a lot easier. Please know that your sadness will change eventually into happy thoughts of you and Linda and your wonderful Family. Stay strong because you still have Family that depends on you and your love. Praying for you to have the strength to continue your life's journey. Friends, Millie & Jimmie

“ Dearest Linda,
I am sure you are already garbed in your tastefully done white and gold wings with tastefully embellished crystals and sequins. The world is at a loss without you today. I will watch for the brightest star in heaven and I know it will be you. I know there is one rowdy family reunion inside the gates of heaven! I love you always and forever.

“ Dear The Bray Family,

My heart is heavy with sadness for each of you during this time of sorrow. Losing a loved one is the hardest thing to ever do. I know Linda was loved by so many. She had a contagious happiness always around her, that vibrated to others. I don't think I ever saw her when she wasn't smiling. I know she's smiling down on all of you now. You know I'm always here if needed. God Bless each of you, I'm still praying for you.

*Love,
Lindy*

“ Sweet Linda. How do I put in words how I will miss you. It would take days. You were the most amazing friend anyone could ever know. At moment my heart breaks. Can not imagine life with out you. That is the selfish side. The positive is you were as beautiful inside as you were out side. You were kind, loving, caring, thoughtful, so funny. To list all memories would take days. Those memories will be with me for ever. Will always be thankful you were brought into my life. There is no doubt when you entered those gates you brought such joy, the joy you gave to all of us that we will so miss. I love you Linda and I will miss you for ever. Mary Lynn
