“ Ms. Chin is the reason I am a musician today. Fifteen years ago she was my chorus teacher at Center School. Back then she was a tough audience. Always light hearted, but wasn't afraid to tell you that you can do better. Seeing as she was one of the coolest people I had ever encountered, I wanted to win her approval. She finally gave me a solo in 6th grade and then took it away the day of because I choked during the dress rehearsal. It sounds harsh, but I'll always love her for that. She was true to her purpose and taught me mine: music comes first. Before ego, before comfort, before making mommy proud. She cared most about the sound and harmony and now, so do I.

More solos came and by then, I knew not to let my nerves get in the way of giving those melodies everything I had.

Now I write songs that I can only dream Ms. Chin will teach to little angels in the sky. And when she does, I trust she will show no mercy in allocating those solos.

Thank you Ms. Chin for teaching me the value of my voice and never letting any of us undermine the power of music.

“ Ms. Chin was a kind, loving, and witty chorus, theater, writing teacher, and advisor. In my fifth grade year, she was an advocate for me and was always there for me. When I came to her hysterically crying after getting into a conflict with another teacher, she paused the class she was leading to give me a hug and reassure me that it would be okay. She was always laughing and smiling, and was extremely passionate about leading chorus. She had a beautiful voice and taught me how to use mine. Ms. Chin will be missed and never forgotten. She was a nurturing teacher, advocate, and mentor to many. Rest In Peace, Ms. Chin.

“ Ms Chin was my teacher for literature at school. She was a kind person and never gave a lot of homework. She always understood what we are saying and would light up every room she came in. I hope her family is doing well. I remember Ms Chin had an amazing sense of humor and she will be remembered as an amazing person
