“ Uncle Mike, aka Hunchie! The nickname I gave you that maw maw so disliked, lol! She would always correct me, “it’s uncle Mike” she would tell me. You helped me through a time in my life when I needed someone and I know you needed me then as well too. I would pick you up at Maw Maw’s and we’d hit the road. A lot of time just driving around and talking, late nights coffee drinking at Waffle House, or we would be PI’s, lol. This was ‘Us’ for the longest. Then Connie and Matt joined us two and we would go dancing and hang out as 4 every weekend. You and I created a bond that I am thankful for. You would drive me crazy sometimes with your horoscoping and your crazy talking, but that’s what made you, you. I’m sure I drove you crazy with my silly shenanigans as well. You would shake your head and same my name at some of the things I said or did. But I was always me when I was around and you were you. I miss you Hunchie but I know you’re no longer in pain and God needed you. You are healed now. I love you and I’ll see you again one Day. Love Ashley!
