“ *To all who loved Sally,
The last few times I was at Woodward I always stopped by to see Sally. We go back a long ways to the time we lived in Peachtree Station. Our children played together and became life long friends. When I called Christopher to tell him about Sally he reminded me she was his Scout Den Mother. That is just one of the many ways she gave to others.
What I remember most was her smile each time I saw her. She always had a few minutes to sit and talk.
Don't be afraid to laugh and cry. Remember the good times, talk about her often and be happy for she is now at peace and no longer in the pain she endured for years. She will always be with you.

My prayers go with you,
Sincerely,
Becky Coats*

“ To Christie, Laurie and Joe,

I want to share this with you. Cindy underlined these words from the book "My Grandfather's Blessings": Grieving is not about forgetting. Grieving allows us to heal, to remember with love rather than pain. It is a sorting process. One by one you let go of the things that are gone and you mourn for them. One by one you take hold of the things that have become a part of who you are and build again. Grief/ I pull up anchor/ and catch the wind. She wrote this to her family, " pull up anchor and catch the wind! She knew she was dying and she left this message for us. Sally was a brave and courageous woman who loved her children and grandchildren with her huge open heart. She was a wonderful friend and confidante to me as we both were raising children. She was wise, she was funny and I treasured my time with her on Clinchfield Trail. No matter what came her way she met every challenge with faith and resolve. Her greatest joy was her children and their children and she has taught us so many lessons. It is our job to try to live our lives with the same determination and "pull up anchor and catch the wind. This is how we can all honor the memory of this beautiful and gracious lady. I love you all.....DeAnne Wilmoth
