“ *momma,
you tried to make sure i knew you were ready to go. there were numerous times that you tried to talk to me about all the things that would happen when you did and i always cried and told you i could not even talk about it.
i used to tell you that you were not allowed to go because i would not allow it. im sitting here now rejoicing in the fact that you are in heaven but im still sorrowful about being left behind. even as a young child i always thought that we would go together. i understand you had to go first because only you could pick out my spot and get it ready for me when God calls me home. i miss you tho momma and this pain that i feel cant be cured by nothing but time. you were an amazing roll model, an amazing parent, and bestest friend i ever had. i love you and i hope God sends you after me when it is my time...please dont dawdle...and i quote you..."i hate to wait...i hate to wait"...*
