“Wow, he was a good friend. I'm so very sorry for the family. I went to school with Shannon and continued our friendship afterwards. He took me on my first boat ride (scared me to death). Just knowing he's not alive and well leaves an empty place in my heart.

“Agnes, I was so sad to hear of Shannon's passing. I know this is a huge loss for you. I fondly remember spending time with Shannon when he was a child. He was a fun kid and always made me laugh. We brought him home from Shirley's one summer. You told me that I would have to tell him each day, “put on clean clothes; brush your teeth; comb your hair”. One morning we went to breakfast and I noticed his hair was a mess. I asked him if he had combed his hair. He said, “Nobody told me to.” I remember laughing so hard at that. I knew then that he definitely marched to the sound of his own drum and no one else's.
