“ my mom taught me many things but the one that was the most valuable to me was how important family is. i know i didn't always make it the easiest for her and i would come off as annoyed when she would tell me how much she loved me but she was my best friend and i loved her so much. i loved the fact that she would always record movies for her and i to watch together and wait for me to be ready to watch them with her. or how she would randomly break out a different accent. she taught me strength, she was the strongest woman i had ever known. she believed in forgiving people no matter how much they've hurt her, and she's passed that on to me. she was the member of the family who could light up the whole room just by her smile and laughter. i loved how we could talk on the phone for an hour or more and laugh over the silliest things. i would always make fun of her for becoming friends with every single person she met but that was the beauty of her. she would help anyone in need no matter how big or small it was even if it was the smallest creature. no amount of time was enough when i was with her. i remember when we would make snowflakes and put them all over the house and never take them down. or how she would give me all the spices she didn't use in the kitchen so i could pretend like i was mommy cooking and leave a mess. she was the person who would see the beauty in the littlest of things from when it came to the tiniest ant to the biggest, prettiest cloud in the sky. she and i were each other's person. i was always there when something happened to her as she was there to be on the phone when something had occurred in my life that was upsetting. she was a fighter, she would fight until she couldn't anymore and shes passed that onto me. Lexi would hate to sing the night night song our family would sing because of the part " we hate to see you go " but i will assure lexi and quinn that this isn't goodbye, this is see you soon mommy. the girls and i won't ever forget her and i will keep her spirit alive for them to remember her by. we were so blessed to have been able to call her our mom. she will be dearly missed by us, but this isn't goodbye.

mom, i know you'll always be with me ill see you when:

i'll see you when the snow falls , when i see myself, when i see the spiders building their webs, when i see lexi and quinn , i'll see you when i'm watching our movies, and i'll see you when i'm looking up at the clouds up to heaven. i'll think of you when it comes from picking out my prom dress to walking down the aisle on my wedding day not having you there. i'll think of you when i need advice about boys and think of what you would say. i'll think of you from my darkest times to my brightest moments. the girls and i know your happy and dancing with everyone in heaven , i love you so much mom.

“ Susan, Susan, Susan where do even I begin? A beloved mother of three amazing girls who's presence and outlook on life was imposing, behind a beautiful smile. Always willing to lend a hand, listen or offer the perfect words of encouragement to those in need. And yes beet root juice does taste like dirt smells... You possessed an uncanny ability calm and make light of situations when the "TAILS" where puffed out. Your appreciation for life was admirable, stopping at times to rescue ladybugs ya noticed trapped in the windings of a spider web. Always so proud of Taylor, Alexa & Quinn for all their achievements, you loved them so much. You'd be amazed how stoically they've carried themselves over the past week. Rest easy knowing ill continue to raise our girls to value and cherish life as you did, taking the time to “stop and smell the roses” occasionally ;) They will always know how much you loved and cared for them AAF. You are truly missed & loved by everyone you ever crossed paths with & Your love and memories will live on in our hearts forever.

Lol remember that damn dog that wouldn't stop barking while sitting at the lake? 8989898989... so funny, such a great time. Say hello to my dad for me, you both where taken way to soon. Until we meet again we love and miss you SuzieQ

Your void leaves us all thirsty for your signature wit, warmth and homespun wisdom

“ Oh Suze,
You were truly a light. You found joy in bringing others joy, and boy did you bring it!

One of my favorite memories was going to a random concert at Chastain Park with you and we wanted to be "prepared" so we brought a tarp, two giant blankets, and the biggest cooler on wheels full of every item from my refrigerator. We toddled in, dragging blankets and coolers and got settled only to look around and realize that we were the youngest attendees by at least 30 years. Completely over-prepared for the occasion, and much more energetic than the rest of the crowd, the older attendees were greatly displeased with the two boisterous girls that had intruded upon their peaceful concert. We laughed and laughed for years about this.

You saw straight to the heart of people and ministered to them from where they were. You never judged anyone for who they were and always exuded love. I love how you would grab my arm when we were laughing about an inside joke, or you were telling me something that you were excited about. You had a heart for everyone, and in turn, everyone was drawn to you.

It was an honor to be your friend and I cherish every memory I have with you from the past 20 years. I miss you, I miss you, I miss you. I love you and I can't wait to see you in glory!

“ Sweet Susan I will always remember our wonderful family get togethers and beach trips. You are a huge part of my childhood. Playing barbies under the stairs of our beach house, non stop cartwheels and being completely silly. I remember our backseat foot shows in your Moms station wagon and running wild and free as the happiest little girls. I'll hold my childhood memories of us in my heart forever and I am so grateful I had the privilege of knowing you.

“ Susan , you made the sun shine when you walked into a room . You made me laugh time and time again . We also have cried together, but now I cry because I miss you so very much. Your kind , beautiful , and a wonderful mother. I spent all day with Lexi and Quinn, they are both so cute and sweet . I had a tear in my eye Lexi patted me on the back and told me everything would be Ok. Until we meet again in Heaven .God Bless you. I love you .

“ To the Cahill and Seibert families - I am absolutely heart broken for you.I am so so sorry. Words simply cannot express the grief I feel for all of you. Susan is part of so many of my childhood memories. She was such a light, so sweet, and so adorable as a kid, and she never changed. She carried all that adorableness right into adulthood! I wish I could be with you as you gather, but know I am thinking of you all from afar. What a gift she was to the world! I know how much she will be missed. Love, Caroline (Duffie) Judy

“ So many memories and times shared with Susan. Vacations, concerts, laughter...ALWAYS laughter. My fondest memories are our conversations of faith in the promise of our Heavenly Father. Often prompted by her, our discussion would inevitably lead to the focus of our faith. I'm forever grateful and comforted by that special aspect of our friendship and unbreakable bond in Christ. Love you, Susan and see you soon. -Steven McKelvey
