“ I knew Teresa for several years while working for the Division of TB Elimination. She was a bright spot for many of us Public Health Advisors - whether she was organizing our conferences or just saying hello, she always wore a beautiful smile and a sunny disposition. She was a beautiful person inside and out.

“Death leaves a heartache no one can heal, love leaves a memory no one can steal.” Quote from a Irish Headstone

Condolences to her family and many friends.

“ My heart is heavy for all of you. Remember the happy times, and call her by name in the old familiar way as she will always be with you. She is free from the chains that have bound her in recent years. Our lives are a weaving of the good times and the sad times and we wish we knew the reason why. God is always with us to show us the way. Teresa is now at peace. May God bless all of you at this difficult time.

“ I worked with Teresa at the Center for Disease Control & Prevention in Atlanta for several years. She was a petite, perky woman with an infectious smile and a real "can do" attitude. She left this earth way too early. My deepest sympathies and condolences to her husband and family.

I worked with Teresa at CDC. What I remember about her is that beautiful smile, strong work ethic, and her compassion. She was a petite fireball. She spoke fondly of her parents, husband, and loved the animals. Rest in Peace, Teresa
