“ This picture of Tom captures his essence and personality. I remember many a nights sitting on the back deck with him peering over his glasses at me and us laughing about things we were talking about. He was a highly intelligent person with a great sense of humor and caring heart. He loved his family over everything else. I'm sorry to hear about his passing, but thankful for our relationship and the opportunity to know him.

“ Tom was a good man. The best husband possible. All who met him liked him and respected his ethics. He instilled his values in his daughter. He will be remembered with great love and admiration.

“ We read in the Bible that Jehovah God will: "Swallow up death forever, and the Sovereign Lord Jehovah will wipe away the tears from all faces." (Isaiah 25:8) Like a father who removes the cause of his children's suffering and dries their eyes, Jehovah takes great joy in bringing death to nothing! Jesus cooperates with him. We read at 1 Corinthians 15:22: "In the Christ all will be made alive."

“ Tom was the kid in our family that from an early age was interested in chasing butterflies and collecting bugs, which is to say that he was a gentle soul and inquisitive of everything around. He had a tremendous natural talent as an artist and seemingly effortlessly would draw really funny and interesting things. For years his rendering of a lion hung over the mantle piece of my parents home, and it was universally loved because the lion's eyes seemed to follow you around the room.

“ Tom was also a talented woodworker and "studied" with a friend, Jack Anderson, artist now in NYC, who roomed with Tom after High School. A visit to their place was always to be steeped in artistic energies and lots of fun. I think these times refined his natural tendencies and shaped his outlook and sense of humor. I knew Tom to have a well defined appreciation for the ironic.

“ Tom will be missed. I hope his surviving family and friends do not suffer his passing for too long. I don't think he would have wanted that at all. Please let me know how I can be of any assistance to you.
Sincerely, Mark
