“ Alan, I am so sorry for loss of your Dad. Just a few days ago I drove through Sugar Hill and thought about your dad and wondered how he was doing. It had been a while since I last saw him. I would usually bump into him at the Buford Grill enjoying breakfast and reading the paper. I would always sit down beside him and catch up things. He would always lead off grumble about current events in the paper, ask about my family and them would fill me in on whats been going on with the traveling ink salesman and his family. He would always tell me Alan has his hands full. Coach Ray will be greatly missed and never forgotten especially by those of us who were fortunate enough to have had him as our coach and friend.
